

Divorce Magazine TeleSeminar #5: Collaborative Divorce Process - Divorce Respectfully Without Going To Court

Guest speaker: Collaborative Family Law Attorney, Lori Becker

Date: Tuesday, April 12, 2011

Time: 8 pm to 8:30 EST (7 pm, CST; 6 pm, MST; 5 pm, PST)

Cost: $0

Divorce is a life-changing event. A new process called the Collaborative Divorce Process offers a better way to end a marriage. This groundbreaking method revolutionizes the way couples divorce. It addresses your legal, financial, and emotional needs and achieves the best family arrangement possible. Families at war produce only losers and no winners. This exciting new process empowers you -- not lawyers or a judge -- to shape the outcome of your divorce. Do your homework and learn more about this process that helps you, as a divorcing couple, focus on your long-term interests, not your short-term anger.

About our guest speakers

Lori D. Becker, J.D., M.B.A., is one of the few Michigan divorce attorneys trained in Collaborative Divorce, in which both spouses' divorce attorneys negotiate a settlement outside of court -- with a written agreement not to litigate. Becker educates clients about conflict -- specifically, avoiding it when appropriate, using the energy in a more constructive way, and saving the courtroom only for truly immovable, conflicted cases. She is on the Board of Directors for numerous boards, including: the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals, the Collaborative Institute of Michigan, the Collaborative Divorce Professionals of Southeast Michigan, and the Women Lawyers Association of Michigan Foundation. www.BeckerLegalGroup.com 1-888-U-DECIDE.
